

Publications – June 2010

Hughes, R (2010) What are friends for? Learning Disability Today. July: 18-20.

Hughes, R (2009) Book Review: Learning Disability and Social Inclusion by Gillian Macintyre. Journal of Intellectual Disability Research. 53 (6): 571-573

Hughes, R (2008). Book Review. Learning Disability Today: A Handbook for Everyone Committed to Improving the Lives of People with Learning Disabilities edited by Steven Carnaby. Research, Policy and Planning, 26 (3): 204-205.

Recent presentations

‘Freedom of action in a context of friendship?’ International Association for the Scientific Study of Intellectual Disabilities. Profound Intellectual and Multiple Disabilities Special Interest Group Young Researchers Colloquium, Groningen, Netherlands, June 2010.

‘Severe and profound intellectual disabilities’, Intellectual Disabilities and Personal Autonomy Workshop, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, UK, May 2010.

‘Friendship Matters? The meaning of friendship in the lives of people with profound intellectual disabilities’, International Association for the Scientific Study of Intellectual Disabilities. Profound Intellectual and Multiple Disabilities Special Interest Group, Cologne, Germany, September 2009.

‘Is personalisation good for people with profound intellectual disabilities?’, Social Policy Association Postgraduate Conference, University of Edinburgh, UK, July 2009.

‘The possibility of friendship in the lives of people who have profound intellectual disabilities’. Poster presented at the Clinical Schools Symposium, University of Cambridge, UK, July 2009.

‘Friendship Matters? The meaning of friendship in the lives of people with profound intellectual disabilities’, Clare Hall, University of Cambridge, UK, November 2008.

‘The Colonisation of Identity? How people with profound learning disabilities are represented in stories of personalisation’, Learning Disability Research Group, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, UK, November 2008.

‘Representations of people with profound intellectual impairment within stories of personalisation’, Health and Welfare Group, Centre for Research in the Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, Cambridge, UK, June 2007.